AHMEDABAD TO BOMBAY IN FOUR HOURS!

Today, we await the bullet train which promises to take us to Mumbai in less than three hours. But did you know that on June 6, 1929, Captain N Vintcent — an American pilot who was touring India in a De Havilland's DH-9 aircraft — completed the journey between the two cities in four hours? His trip was covered extensively by TOI. With him were W A Childs, a photographer; and E Walsh from the Vacuum Oil Company. A year later, inspired by reading an American monthly magazine called Popular Science, Mansukhlal Parekh made a two-seater aircraft in Jamnagar. Parekh, the son of a jeweller, imported the aircraft engine from the US, and used spare parts from a car and a cycle. The Jamnagar state was impressed and sponsored Parekh's training at the Karachi Aero Club. J R D Tata was Parekh's batchmate there.
