Mausoleum of Hazarat Nizam-ud-din Aulia, Delhi, India

Early nineteenth century engraving from The Air-India Collection

From the fourteenth century, the area around the mausoleum of the venerated saint, Nizam-ud-din Aulia (d. 1325) became the burial ground of Muslim nobility and represents Muslim architectural traditions of different periods. Two great poets of the Urdu language, Amir Khusrau (d. 1325) and Ghalib (d. 1896) are buried here as are Princess Jahanara, daughter of the Mughal Emperor Shah Jahan, Mohammad Shah, a later Mughal Emperor, and other princes.

The Air-India Art Collection comprises about 4000 items of traditional and contemporary paintings, sculptures, graphics and objets d'art collected over three decades. These items embellish the decor of Air-India's offices worldwide or are used for reproduction, like the engraving on this menu card.
