MID-DAY

Mumbai, Wednesday, April 26, 2000 Late City Edition

FLIGHTS OF FANCY: Filmstar Rani Mukherjee signed autographs and joked with children of the Society for the Education of the Crippled who were treated yesterday to a simulated flight by Air-India in a Boeing 747 cabin that serves as the airline's cabin crew training mock-up. The excursion 'took off' with the simulated roar of aircraft engines, a magical audio-visual tour around the world by A-I's mascot, the diminutive maharaja, and even a lively quiz contest about Air-India. Picture shows Bande Nawaz, one of the Special Passengers on board our 'Flight of Fancy' participating in the drawing competition. He had no hands, but he drew with his feet. All the children enjoyed the flight very much and grew quite fond of us.

Two years later, I was invited by this NGO as a Special Guest to their Annual Day Function, at which the Chief Guest was Bollywood actor Akshay Khanna.

When Bande Nawaz came on stage along with other children, he recognized me and scampered towards me past the Chief Guest and hugged me.

I couldn't resist picking him up in my arms and hugging him as I fought back my tears.
